Compliance problems? You've got 'em.

Here's how to solve them—and look cool while you do it.

1 Simplify your Code and policies

Our job aids, checklists, and infographics can be integrated into your policies and Code of Conduct and are easily tailored to your branding and risks.

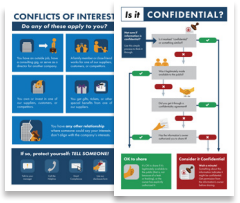

2 Operationalize key elements

Put compliance in the context of your employees' jobs with our simple job aids. They're willing to do the right thing, but they want help knowing what to do.

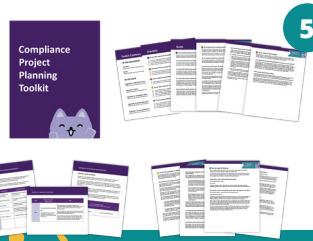

3 Drive awareness of critical risks

Deploy killer awareness materials to create a legit marketing campaign—and have them integrate seamlessly with our other tools and training.

4 Empower managers to do their part

Managers are willing to help out, but they're squeezed enough already. Deliver our manager toolkits, empower ownership of compliance, and relieve some pressure.

5 Run better, more measurable projects

Just "doing compliance" doesn't translate into obvious business value. Design initiatives with measurable outcomes and business impact with our tools.

6 Build allies with HR, Legal, and Finance

Collaborating with these critical functions means successfully navigating roles and oversight overlap. Our tools limit confusion by clearly defining who does what.

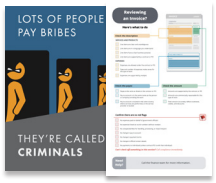

7 Get more hotline engagement

If you want to break through and get serious hotline engagement, you need to get strategic and creative. That's where our posters, screensavers, and tools shine.

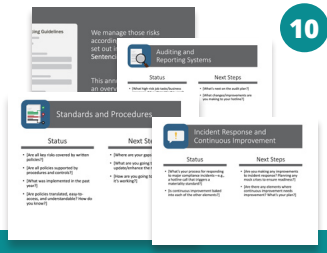

8 Build your compliance brand

Brands filter noise and guide us to voices we trust. Help employees learn to know and trust your guidance by using our consistent design system.

9 Craft a compliance culture

Build a strong culture—one that connects beliefs to business application—through a strategic mix of high-impact visual assets and operational tools.

10 Give better board reports

Use our structured template to keep your board members focused on what matters—program structure and oversight—and present it in an easy-to-understand way.

Contact us to join Compliance Design Club today!

hihi@thebroadcat.com

compliancedesignclub.com

BROADCAT